KOLKATA: Reserve Bank of India on Monday refuted rumours which is making people believe that currency notes with scribbling on them would cease to be legal tenders from January.

Rumours are doing the rounds in the social media that banks would not accept currency notes with writing on them from next month.

The central bank has denied having issued any such communication.

It has reiterated that all currency notes issued by it are legal tender and banks and members can freely and without fear accept them in exchange for good and services.
